Notice.

The Democrats of Lincoln county are requested to meet in convention in Stanford, Kentucky, on the 8th of April (county court day), to appoint delegates to the convention, to be held in Lexington May 20th, to nominate a candidate for Judge of this appellate district.

J. WARREN GIBBSBY,
Chairman County Convention.

Home Again.

Thos. W. Varmon, Esq., arrived home from the "Smelly" on Monday last, in fine health and single-mindedness.

Look Out!

Shirley Saunders sold property of five different persons, on Saturday last, on account of their failure to pay their taxes in time. He means to collect.

Attention Ladies!

Read the advertisement of Mrs. M. E. Hayden. She is a lady of fine taste and taste. Her millinery goods are all of our lady citizens.

Appellate Judge.

Hon. J. W. Menzies, of Pendleton county, announces himself, through our columns, a candidate for the appellate judgeship in this district. Judge Menzies is an able jurist.

New Buggy For Sale.

E. R. Chennault has a fine buggy with patent hubs, which has been in use but a few weeks, and will sell it at a bargain. He can be found at the store of Severance & Miller.

Lunning Papers.

We saw a man step into a store last week and ask for the loan of our journal. He did not get it, though, for the sensible merchant told him to go and buy one.

Hon. George B. McKee.

This gentleman announces himself, through our columns today, a candidate for the appellate judgeship, subject to the 20th May convention at Lexington. Judge McKee is an able lawyer and a fine scholar.

A Short Notice.

There can be no doubt that the line of the Cincinnati Southern railroad, through or near this place, is shorter, and hence cheaper, by many dollars, than by any other route, and the surveys of the line will prove it beyond a doubt.

Surgeons.

We learn that the surgeons are already on one or more lines of the road from Covington, Mo., one going through Richmond, and the other on the line through Lancaster, Stanford, etc. There will thus be a party in the Danville line in a short time.

Out for the Market.

Our young friend John H. Craig, of the firm of Craig & McAllister, started last for a large stock of new goods, a few days ago. John is a popular buyer and will have something handsome for his customers when he returns.

Styles and Figures.

About every other year the styles and figures of dress goods are, are pretty. This is one of the years that they are simply beautiful. Ladies, stop a place and come to town and see the new goods which are fresh.

Notice.

All parties knowing themselves indebted to the late firm of Chennault & Hughes, on account, are hereby notified that unless settled by the 15th of April they will be left with A. R. Penny for collection. I can be found at the house of Severance & Miller.

Removal.

Messrs. Dunn & Orsley have removed their drug store to the stand lately occupied by Orsley & Rochester as a boot, shoe and clothing house. They have also purchased the jewelry, etc. of Mr. Rochester, and Tom Richards will remain with them.

Candidates.

There were several aspirants for congressional honors in town this week. Gentlemen, you must feel quite independent of newspaper men, as you failed to honor us with a call, or even the grip of your hand. Never mind, we may have our man picked out.

Attention Boys!

One of the advertisements in our columns contains every letter in the alphabet. We will give to each boy, under ten years old, a set of marbles who will find it and read it to his parents, or some friend. Call at our office and get the marbles, ye who are successful.

Strange.

It seems a little strange to us that Louisville with a population of 100,000, can support only two daily papers. The experiment of trying to sustain twice that number, has resulted in universal failure. However, the Courier-Journal is equal to a half a dozen, of itself.

Thanks.

To our talented young friend in Liberty for his report from that quarter this week. Can't you give us an article for our next week's paper about fishing and fisheries? Your beautiful river is certainly a fine place for such sport. We have spent many happy days on its classic banks.

Alaska Cravats.

One of the gentlemen connected with this journal, in passing along Main street the other day, was hailed by a merchant of the firm of S. & M. He was told that he needed a new cravat, and he got it of the Alaska style. To Messrs. S. & M. our office is indebted for a decent appearance on the street.

Fine Oats.

We saw a lot of seed oats the other day, in town, of the kind called "Starburst." They are indeed a surprise to all who see them. We never saw such grain in all our lives. They are very heavy, large and plump, and if our farmers would sow such all the time, we do not think it would long be the cry that we have no feed for our stock.

FROM HUSTONVILLE.

HUSTONVILLE, KY., APRIL 3, 1872.

Correspondence Interior Journal.

There is a theory, that every since Adam broke down in his first, and only, honest speculation, everything has been "loosely hung" in our wicked world. I cannot dispute nor refute the maxim. Milton was considered ungrateful, when he hinted at having found "beneath the lowest depth a deeper deep," but had he lived until now, he might have gone deeper still.

From the tone of the public press, however, we judge there is a compensatory influence at work, which is slowly, but surely, getting things into shape. The old-fashioned law is too slow; and a very little venal: Kukulizum has become unpopular, and is now only a name, a sort of "John Doe," or "Richard Roe," for federal courts. Suffering humanity, from very necessity, has been driven to suicide, as the only means of securing common justice without minuscule expense. But we notice that even this is about to prove a failure. A serious looking man may be arrested and tried on suspicion of intention to commit a "Edu de so." Utter, universal, and unreplicable destruction is now the anchor of our hope.

REY TO BROTHERS TRINOS.

Dan Miller was in town yesterday, gay and festive and jovial as ever. Dan is a clever fellow, a little lame on the "dog leg," but decidedly "right on the niggers." He kind to Dan.

Cemetery.

There seems to be a decided sentiment in our place, and the surrounding country, in reference to a cemetery. A meeting was held at the Presbyterian church, on Tuesday night, where the preliminaries were discussed at considerable length. Such men as W. L. Williams, J. J. Dyer, Sam Reid, Sam Stevens, John Dismore, J. B. Green, F. B. Tidwell, and many others, were deeply engaged in the enterprise. The meeting adjourned to next Tuesday night.

THE FURNITURE.

Of Transylvania is expected to meet in this place on the 10th of April, at 7 o'clock P. M. Hence the price of chickens, eggs, turkeys and fowls is, of course, fabulous. It is strange what an effect a projected meeting of preachers has on the provision market. Well, let us come! Hustonville never failed yet.

FINALLY.

On Monday last, Emmett McCormack, Sam Seaton and Ed. Williams left for the West. Nobody left of marriageable age except John Cooper. George McKee's Kansas letter has done the mischief.

BUSY.

The sound of the saw, hammer, plane and trowel fill the air about our growing town from morning until night. Much building will be done within our limits during the present year. We notice that the work of remodeling the room recently purchased by the National Bank of Stanford, for bank and office use, is going on rapidly. J. N. Davidson has completed his store house on Depot street. Thomas T. Davies will soon be ready to commence business in his new home on Lancaster street. The plasterers are at work on the court house. G. H. McKinney has nearly completed the improvements on his dwelling, having repaired the damage done by a recent fire, and giving it a thorough painting, besides other improvements.

A. S. Meyer is building a large brick kitchen, adjoining his hotel, in lieu of a frame, and also complete plans running his hotel up several feet higher and making a metal roof. S. M. Carson is refitting his hotel inside and out, and making it more comfortable. S. M. Carson is refitting his hotel inside and out, and making it more comfortable. S. M. Carson is refitting his hotel inside and out, and making it more comfortable.

Our Advertisers.

With a few exceptions, the Merchants and Mechanics of Stanford have shown us in a substantial manner, that they appreciate our efforts to assist them in their business. To these men we owe more gratitude than to any other class of business men. They have perched us upon a pole where we can look around, over our own county, and say with pride, that six hundred paying subscribers are ours—only one, and still they come! We can also look back on the adjoining counties of Garrard, Boyle, Rockcastle, Pulaski, Wayne, and Casey, and count them by scores! We acknowledge our gratitude first to those who gave us their confidence and their favors when our list of subscribers would not exceed two hundred, for if that encouragement had been withheld our enterprise were a doomed failure. Now that our circulation is sufficient to sustain us, and our prospects to double our list during the next three months so flattering, we hope that others of our worthy business men will "see ten per cent in it," and let us represent them also. We trust our readers will not become impatient, if while perched upon our lofty pole, we give an occasional crow for our generous advertiser.

Blue Grass.

Of all grasses of which we have any knowledge, this is the best. Even now, although spring is very late, this grass is sufficiently high, of the new crop, to keep stock up. But for this, many of our farmers would be compelled to dispose of their animals, on account of having no feed. We heard one farmer say that he had nearly one hundred head of cattle with nothing to feed them on, and that he had turned them out on his grass fields as a last resort. Except in severe drought, blue grass stands among all the grasses without a peer and for summer fattening, there is nothing in the way of feed that can equal it.

H. and T. F. Railroad.

We learn from the Richmond Register that Edzell county voted a subscription of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars of stock in the proposed Richmond and Three Forks railroad on Saturday, 21st ultimo. The proposition carried by a majority of five hundred and thirty-eight votes. There was only one speech made for or against it, the friends of the measure depending entirely upon printer's ink.

Criticism.

We notice from a sign board at one of our leading business houses, that Boots "A" Shoes and Hardware "B" Groceries have entered into partnership! Well, printing and sign painting are arts which must be learned before practiced. A typographical error is sometimes excusable in one, but never in the other.

To Landers.

Our Dutch compositors' patience was taxed too severely by leaders hanging around his case, when he broke out in the following strain: "You shut git mit yourself, and let me print my paper! You shut git mit yourself, and let me print my paper! You shut git mit yourself, and let me print my paper!"

FROM LIBERTY.

A Difficulty—New Jail—Died.

Correspondence Interior Journal.

A difficulty occurred in our weekly quiet village last week between Dr. Don S. Parker and Tom Wilkinson, in which the latter attempted to shoot the Dr., but was unsuccessful. The examining trial the Dr. was cleared, and Mr. Wilkinson's trial was put off for a few days on account of witnesses not being present, and he was placed under guard for safe keeping, that night, however, he took "French leave" of his guards and has not been heard from since.

NEW JAIL.

Our County Court, since the burning of the old jail, are making arrangements to build a handsome brick prison which will be an ornament to the town, besides a terror to the criminals of the county. The sheriff reports that all the persons that have been in prison for several years, to keep from paying fines and being arrested for misdemeanors have returned, as there is no place to confine them.

DIED.

On the 27th day of March, 1872, at his residence in Casey county, James Clarkson in the 67th year of his age.

OUR MERCHANTS.

Those of our merchants who left for the markets last week have returned, and are now receiving their new goods. We have glanced at them, and were very much pleased with the elegant stock these young men have brought to this market. Other heads than these can do no better. Mr. E. B. Hayden, our youngest merchant, has selected a stock of goods that will please the most fastidious, and with his reputation as a fair dealer, his customers will go no further to supply their wants. Jos. A. Miller, of the firm of McAllister & Miller, has in the selection of his household goods, done credit to his reputation as a steady buyer and an excellent merchant. Mr. Severance, of Severance & Miller, has purchased a stock that cannot be excelled in Central Kentucky. Joe is always "the right man in the right place." His friends should not take our word regarding his capacity as a merchant and salesman, but give him an early call, and we guarantee that neither he nor his assistants E. R. Chennault and the police and constable Mr. Higgins, will consider it a hardship to show you their goods.

Injured.

A brakeman on the train at this place, named Jordan, had his shoulder blade broken last week in attempting to couple some cars. He has been suffering greatly for some time, being out of his mind occasionally. He is at the Garcia house, under treatment of a physician. We hope the unfortunate man will soon recover. His business is a very dangerous one, and too much care cannot be taken by engineers in moving cars to be coupled. Our own opinion is that more stringent laws should be passed for the protection of the life and limb of brakemen upon railways. Even to pass such a law as would hold the engineer criminally liable in case of death, and civilly liable to the wounded in case of injury, where the greatest caution was not observed on their part, would, it seems to us, be productive of much good, and the means of saving many lives and limbs.

Southward Bound.

One of our proprietors, Mr. D. W. Hill, left our town this week, bound on a trip to the southward, on business for that excellent and growing life insurance company, the Southern Mutual, of which he is the State agent. We ask for him a kindly greeting from all our brethren of the press, wherever he may go in his travels, assuring them that he represents not only one of the best life insurance companies in all the land, but one of the best county weekly papers. At least, good judges of the merits of the Southern Mutual, and we do not believe in his charge. We hope to see his pleasant face again in our midst about the first or middle of May.

Spurious.

It may not be known to all of our readers, who wish to plant potatoes this spring, that there are two kinds of Early Rose in the market for sale; the one a genuine variety, the other spurious and almost worthless, from the fact that it does not bud, neither is it fit to eat. Be sure, therefore, that in buying the Early Rose, you get the kind which is of a pinkish purple color, and much of the shape of the old-time Newcomb, only it is a smoother sort, and the eyes not so deeply sunken as the Newcomb. There is no better potato for early or late use than the Rose, and we advise our friends to plant this kind and the Russet, entirely.

"Pride of Kentucky" A brand of Faint Family Flour warranted to give entire satisfaction, for sale at Geo. D. Warren's.

There most certainly cannot be a more genteel, social, nice, intelligent and agreeable two hundred barrels collected together, than at the National, under the charge of Messrs. Hatcher & Bell. Two more accommodating, polite, courteous gentlemen cannot be found besides, there are no more clever and attentive persons to the wants of the guests of any hotel than the clerks, Mr. Jas. B. Green and Michael Garvin. We say to one and all, try the National, corner Main and Fourth streets, Louisville, Kentucky.

Now!

During the first half of April, all who desire to plant raspberry and strawberry plants, currants, gooseberries, etc., should do so, by all means. Later than this, the buds will have swollen so that there is some danger in transplanting. In fact, we advise our friends to plant as much of these plants as possible, during the next week. A few days spent in such labor will surely repay the gardener or farmer, and surely nothing is more delightful to the palate than those delicious small fruits—"all smoothed in cream."

A Large Crowd.

We predict that a tremendous crowd will assemble to hear the able speech which Hon. Cassius M. Clay will deliver in our town on the 10th of this month. We hope that one of our enterprising city daily papers, both in Louisville and Cincinnati, will send short hand writers to take down the speech as it is delivered. It will, we doubt not, be worthy of such an honor.

J. E. Delph.

We refer our readers to the card, in this issue, of E. E. Delph, auctioneer, Lexington, Kentucky. His success as an auctioneer has been unparalleled. His sales are always among the highest market quotations. His terms are about half the usual rates charged. Stock men should read his advertisement.

Starvation.

The fact is, starvation is now staring in the face of many cattle on all our farms. Many of our most thrifty farmers have been compelled, even at this early day, to turn their stock upon very short grass, or let them die for want of a little feed.

FROM PINE HILL.

Improvements—Influence of Population—Dog Law—New Railroad—A Good Democrat.

Correspondence Interior Journal.

The best stone house in Rockcastle county is now being finished at this place by C. Crooke & Co.

"YOUNG TRULY."

There are several old bachelors at this place who would like to say to a keep your visitor "young truly."

INCREASE OF POPULATION.

There has been thirty births in this vicinity within the last thirty days. Perhaps there will be as many more during this month. We do not profess to be a judge of such matters—"you know how the law runs."

DOG LAWS.

Some of our friends seem to think that had the Legislature allowed the dog law to have taken effect over this county, we would not have to send so much money to adjoining counties for meat, but for dogs. Others are of the opinion that chickens would be scarce.

NEW RAILROAD.

There has been a company formed in this county to run a narrow gauge railroad from Round Stone station up Round Stone and Brush Creek a distance of twelve miles to a coal bank. We don't know whether they term themselves a coal company or a railroad company, but suppose it is the latter, and that the Cincinnati and Northern railroad. Cincinnati should be advised of this movement immediately.

A GOOD DEMOCRAT.

The greatest talker in the county lives at this place. He has been known to talk to a man's hat on a fence post all night, not discovering until day light that his friend had become weary of his conversation, and had left him on a post and hat in the night. When by himself, he plays the violin well, is a sound Democrat and walks rather than ride a borrowed horse to the election.

JINKS.

"A Bird's Eye View." Our friend Tom Richards, the skillful silversmith, and guardian of the tower clock on our courthouse, invited us to make an excursion with him into the belly for the purpose of examining the work of the clock, and his intricate machinery. We accepted the invitation, and two representatives of the board ascended the giddy stairway with beating hearts. It was not so bad going up, but the descent was a little fearful, on account of the unfinished condition of the flight of stairs. When we reached the dome, our astonishment was a little more increased when we took a "bird's eye view" of our growing town, with the surrounding scenery. We did not expect to see when we stepped out, until this visit to the belly, we had no accurate idea of the extent of our town and its suburbs. There never was a town more unfortunately situated than our town, on account of the hills and hollows over which it is built. It is much larger in area than we thought, and if we are on a level plain, it would seem twice as large as it does. A stranger coming into view from any point, would see a very small village, but if he will go into the tower of our courthouse he will at once conclude that it is about three times as large as it seemed from the ground view. The scenery from the bell tower, in all directions, is very fine. Far away, for fifteen miles, the blue line of Hall's Gap hills, in the direction of Oak Orchard, extends and divides the landscape, here and there, are many snow-white mountains, nestled among hills and valleys.

For fine Seed Potatoes go to Suspended.

The Frankfort Commonwealth, one of the oldest papers in Kentucky, established in 1833, suspends publication to-day. So long as the Commonwealth continued to live, the best interests of the people of Kentucky, they gave it a liberal and generous support. Falling into the hands of a radical, however, its teachings were not such as our people admired; hence its suspension. The Commonwealth has been really politically dead for years, and it should, long since, have crept into its grave like a decent corpse. "Requiescat in pace."

SEND YOUR ORDERS for job work to this office.

New York World.

Among the many daily exchanges which come to our table, none are more highly prized than the World. It has all the news of any consequence from every part of the habitable globe, and it is, withal, one of the soundest Democratic sheets which our country affords. We have always prized it highly, and Mr. Marble, his able and energetic editor, deserves credit for his efforts in successfully establishing one of the best among the many excellent American newspapers.

Wanted—1000 lbs. Bacon in exchange for Groceries at Geo. D. Warren's.

No Joke.

Some of our friends were disposed to doubt that the Farmers National Bank contemplated making the improvement we announced in a previous issue via: two open fronts of iron, and plate-glass, the one on Main and the other on Lancaster streets. We are assured that such is the intention of the board of directors, and we know they are men that have the taste, good judgment and nerve to undertake it. Let every body be still, and keep "shum," and we'll see.

1000 lbs. Fine Laurel County leaf Tobacco, equal to the finest Virginia leaf, at Geo. D. Warren's.

Come to Stanford First.

Ladies in all parts of this county are often disposed to call neighboring towns for the purpose of looking at the goods, and sometimes shopping. Those who do so must allow us to advise them this time, and come to Stanford first. If they are not pleased with the stocks found here, it is not because our merchants haven't a large variety, and don't sell cheap, and are not accommodating. A.

Martins.

These little black chattering have come back to their summer homes from their first winter quarters. They made their first appearance in our box, on the morning of April 4th, about sunrise. We welcome them back again, and hope all who have homes will put up boxes for them.

FROM THE FAR WEST.

Colorado. The Climate. The Arkansas Valley. The Rocky Mountains. The Rocky Mountains. The Rocky Mountains.

Correspondence Interior Journal.

I dislike exceedingly to disappoint any one, and I know when you are the indefinite Rocky Mountains made the dating place of this, you will naturally expect something big. Therefore, I give you timely warning. I don't intend to send in those huge hyperbolic tales of "savage" "tribes," "guides," and the letters of Western correspondents to certain extent. These men come out here, rush frantically over the country, get hold of the "Guide Book," make a few alterations, to suit their own vivid imaginations, grasp the pen and send a story from the "far West." O, temples! O, names! Their facts are distorted, and their geography gives one convulsions. We are not going to waste time on these. No wonder, we in the East, are so ignorant of this Western country and its people! We have a kind of wild, romantic, misty idea that nothing but traveling and seeing for ourselves can dispel it. Springs from what Bacon calls the "flood" the influence of false teaching. But to my theme.

LOCAL LEGISLATION.

Mr. Thos. W. Varmon has kindly furnished us a brief abstract of some of the laws passed by the last Legislature, which are of interest to Lincoln county particularly.

1. Act to amend an act for the benefit of Lincoln county—which empowers the county court to issue bonds to the amount of $5,000, in addition to what has been issued, and makes the interest on same payable annually at the National Bank of Stanford.

2. Exempts the President and Directors of the Hustonsville and Stanford turnpike road from working on dirt roads so long as said turnpike is not in debt and kept up by the work of said president and directors without compensation.

3. The charter of the Hanging Fork and Green River turnpike road was so amended as to allow tolls to be charged for hauling between the gates.

4. The Crab Orchard and Crews Knob turnpike road amended so as to extend the time five years before the owners will have to turn their road over to the State.

5. Charter of Hustonsville amended so as to prohibit the sale of liquor in said town as a beverage, for five years—or within one mile of its limits. Druggists can sell on the certificate of a physician, when necessary for medicinal purposes.

6. Charter of Stanford amended so as to allow trustees of the town to charge not less than one hundred nor more than two hundred dollars for license to tavern keepers—other and very stringent amendments were passed, but we have no information as to what they are.

7. The poor house of Lincoln county ordered to be sold, and proceeds re-invested in a more suitable place, nearer town. This is a wise law.

8. Clerk of Lincoln Circuit Court is required to make a cross index to his suits and other records—and the cost of clerk's fee in such cases, is to be taxed as cost in each suit.

9. Buffalo Spring Cemetery is allowed to condemn additional land for cemetery purposes, etc. This is to be done by a petition to our Circuit Court.

RICHMOND JUNCTION.

We had not visited this point for several months, until recently; and were astonished to find that it presented such a busy scene. The time of our visit was at the hour when the morning trains arrive. Far to the north, around the beautiful curve formed by the railroad and the north line of hills, the Richmond train came to sight, puffing and flying as though it was trying to cut our run the wind. To the south of this track, Logan's creek, with its watery flood of water, ran on to its destination at Dix River. We looked for a full two miles southward, and saw, at the same moment, the Mt. Vernon train dashing along at full speed, with a full laden coal train in hot pursuit. At the "round house," there were several other locomotives, under a full head of steam, which had just landed their long line of coal laden with lumber, coal, etc., which were being transferred, or in railroad language, "made up" for their proper destination. Entering the telegraph office, we found Mr. McNeil, the agent and operator, busy as usual, making up dispatches, etc. Soon, the trains were off, and evening quiet prevailed. We have often thought what a fine location this is for a town. We doubt not that if Stanford were located at this point, it would double in population in a very short time. Her present location is a miserable and unwholesome one; on this account, more than any other, she has been kept down in her growth.

HATS AND BONNETS.

Mrs. L. Beatty, whose advertisement will be found in our columns, is constantly receiving new styles of bonnets and hats and other millinery goods. Nothing contributes more to the harmony and perfection of a handsome toilet than the hat or bonnet. Some persons expend themselves altogether on their dress, clock or furniture, and neglect their bonnet, and think the bonnet an altogether minor consideration, which can be made up of anything and covered up, if need be, with a veil. This is a great mistake. The hat or bonnet crowns the whole, and either adds beauty and dignity to the rest of the work or sinks it into commonplace.

FINE HOGS.

We are informed by our friend R. R. Rainey, Esq., late of this county, now a permanent citizen of Ash Grove, Missouri, that the very superior thorough-bred Berkshire sows he purchased of Mr. Jones and Mr. Cosby, of this county, recently, and shipped to Missouri, arrived safely, and that he proposes to go into the business of raising fine hogs in the home of his adoption. We wish him every success, and know that he has the most pure Berkshire stock, as Messrs. Cosby and Jones' stock is known as the finest in the world.

IGNORANCE.

Some of the prisoners in our jail wrote a note to one of our county officers, offering him ten dollars "in greenbacks," if he would release them from confinement. We do not know whether to attribute such a proposition to ignorance, or what else. Can it be that such an individual is so "green," as to think the matter of imprisonment, on grave charges of felony, is to be settled outside of court by a mere offer of money? If so, his ignorance must be of a very "unpleasant" type.

ALL AT ONCE.

Up to the present week the spring has been very backward. For the last few days, though, the weather has been very pleasant, and our gardeners and farmers have made the most of it. We sincerely hope that the lesson of short crops of all kinds during the last year, including fruit, vegetables and all kinds of farm produce, such as hay, etc., will spur them to a doubling of their diligence, so that another year will find an abundance of everything essential to the maintenance of both man and beast.

INCREASE IN PAIDRANTS.

A party of emigrants passed through our town a few days ago on their way to "the land of the living," when about a mile from town, a female of the party gave birth to a daughter, which delayed them only a few hours. "Roads" would be an appropriate name for that birth.
